MARKET OVERVIEW

The Australian market rose 1.2% in January, as investors become increasingly more hopeful that the RBA and the U.S. Fed can bring inflation under control and reduce interest rates in 2024 without the need for a recession. In line with this, headline CPI in Australia fell to 4.1% over the 12 months to December and just 0.6% over the December quarter, below the RBA's forecast. The best performing industries in January were Energy (+5.2%), as the situation in the Red Sea lifted oil prices by 5% and Financials (+4.9%) as insurance stocks bounced back after performing poorly towards the end of 2023. In contrast, Mining (-5.7%) stocks fell as sentiment towards China deteriorated and Utilities (-1.5%) also underperformed as electricity prices fell.

The largest positive contributors to the Company's performance during the month were overweight positions in Medibank Private and Whitehaven Coal as well as underweight positions in Newmont, Arcadium Lithium and Domino's. However, overweight positions in Mineral Resources, Evolution Mining and Independence Group as well as underweight positions in Aristocrat Leisure and Resmed detracted from relative performance.

The Company remains actively positioned to seek superior income than the benchmark.
